AllergCo

Herbal Support for Seasonal Stresses*

The changing of the seasons, with flowers and trees in beautiful bloom, is something most of us look forward to. But for millions of people it's common to experience symptoms of mild seasonal stresses from substances in the environment. Seasonal stresses can be uncomfortable, making you feel terrible.

MediHerb AllergCo is a formulation of specific herbal extracts, with a long history of traditional use to support the body's response to occasional seasonal stresses.*

What is AllergCo?

MediHerb AllergCo is a well-balanced combination of quality herbal extracts: Albizia (Albizia lebbek) bark; the root of Chinese or 'Baical' Skullcap (Scutellaria baicalensis); and Black Cumin seed (Nigella sativa).

Albizia has long been used traditionally in Ayurvedic medicine to maintain healthy airway passages to support normal breathing as well as normal healthy skin function. In traditional Chinese medicine, Chinese or 'Baical' Skullcap is used to support the body's organs of elimination, helping relieve seasonal stresses affecting the skin, eyes, throat, ears and nose. Black Cumin seed has been included in this formulation for its antioxidant activity, to help reduce damage to body cells from common environmental free radicals.*

AllergCo is formulated to help the body respond more normally to seasonal stresses where healthy respiratory, immune and skin functions are needed. It also supports healthy breathing passages and respiratory function, skin and immune health.*

Who Needs AllergCo?

People who are dealing with single or multiple seasonal stresses may enjoy the support from taking AllergCo. AllergCo is designed for those seeking support for normal immune response, or support with healthy skin, or to make breathing easier by maintaining healthy airways.*
